Jeff Davis

THE ATTEMPT [illegible]

[illegible] Jefferson Davis fled from Richmond [illegible]

The statement is untrue and the excuse is unavailing. The writer well knows what has not heretofore been imparted to public curiosity that Jefferson Davis had many weeks before Lee's catastrophe made the most careful and exacting preparations for his escape. The matter had been fully consulted with his Cabinet in profound secrecy and it had been agreed that to secure the escape of the President and his principal officers the Shenandoah should be ordered to cruise off the coast of Florida to take the distinguished fugitives on board and that she select that coast for their exit from the Confederacy and their extrication from its falling fortunes. Those orders had been sent to the Confederate cruiser many days before Lee's lines were broken. It was calculated that the President's party might make an easy and deliberate escape in the way agreed upon as the common chances with the Florida [illegible] were then scarcely doubtful and once on board of the Shenandoah—a fast sailer the most valuable remnant of the Confederate navy—they might soon obtain an asylum on a foreign shore. Other preparations were made for the flight. All the papers of the Government were revised and then marked for destruction abandonment or preservation according to their contents, and even Mr Davis' private baggage was put in order for transportation. Of course the public knew nothing of these preparations and did not suspect them. Mr Daniel of the Richmond Examiner had repeatedly said with bitterness that whatever the event of the war whatever its misfortune Mr Davis would be certain to provide for his personal safety above that of all others and indeed that journal had suggested that for this mean reason the President had invariably blanched at any retaliation upon the enemy involving the penalty of death. But many people resented this thought of the Examiner. They persisted in believing that President Davis would stand with the army when the Confederate flag was lowered and accept a common lot with them and the people and they called to mind his heroic words spoken to the troops in Virginia in 1861 at the beginning of the war: "When the last line of bayonets is leveled I will be with you."

After having safely bestowed his important papers and by this measure consulted in some degree his personal safety it might be supposed that Mr Davis would leave Richmond with some appearance of self possession and dignity. But after all the provisions for his flight the signal for it was sudden and dramatic—announced to him in Lee's dread telegram while he sat in St Paul's church with the sunshine of a calm and beautiful day pulsing through the windows as to have some effect of surprise at least breaking down his equanimity and reducing him to that condition of fluster and tremulousness with which the weak man receives the news of misfortune no matter how long he has vaguely expected it and practised against the moment of its announcement.

HE ROBS THE TREASURY

He nervously prepared at his house his private baggage assisted by Mrs Davis and he never ventured into the streets until under cover of the night he got unobserved on the train that was to convey him from Richmond. He did not forget the gold in the Treasury that, amounting to less than $40,000 it had been proposed some days before in Congress to distribute as largesses to the discontented soldiers but Mr Davis had insisted upon reserving it for exigencies and it was now secured in his baggage. He did not forget his sword, a costly present from some admirers in England that had been sent to the armory for some repairs. It was abandoned to the fire there. The last seen of this relic of the Southern Confederacy was a twisted and gnarled stem of steel on private exhibition in a lager beer saloon in Richmond garnished with a certificate that it was what remained of Jeff Davis' sword and that the curiosity might be purchased for two hundred dollars. Whether the retailer of lager has yet disposed of his treasure we do not know.

HE WEEPS AT ABBEVILLE

Mr Davis reached Abbeville on the first of May. So far he had been accompanied by the fragments of five brigades amounting in number to less than one thousand men and reorganized into two battalions at the front and in rear of the long train which signaled his flight and foolishly obstructed his effort at escape. There were already painful evidences of the demoralization of the escort and the story told almost at every mile by stragglers from Johnston's command was not calculated to inspire them. At Abbeville Mr Davis resolved on a council of war. It was composed of the five brigade commanders and Gen Braxton Bragg (for the year past the military adviser of the President) was admitted to this last scene of the deliberations of the lost cause.

In the council Mr Davis spoke with more than his customed facility and earnestness inspired by hope but without volubility or extravagance. He made a statement of su[illegible] ... [illegible] the war ... [illegible] to reorganize ... [illegible] a nucleus for rallying ... [illegible] try.

None of the [illegible] answered him at length. The replies of the commanders were almost each [illegible] The scene was becoming painful ... [illegible] each on [illegible] once his decision. Each answered slowly and reluctantly in the negative. The only words added were that though they considered the war [illegible] they would not disband [illegible] until they had guarded the President to a place of safety.

"No," exclaimed Mr Davis passionately, "I will listen to no proposition for my safety. [illegible]"

"We were all silent," says General Basil Duke ... [illegible]

All [illegible] the importance [illegible] wagons [illegible] were provided [illegible] Mr [illegible] Mr Davis' dignity was laid aside without much trouble. Carlyle says: "A King in the midst of his body guard, with all his trumpets war horses and gilt standard bearers will look great though he be little but only some Roman Curius can give audience to satrap ambassadors while seated on the ground, with a wooden cap and supping on boiled peas like a common soldier." Mr Davis in the dress of a country farmer had none of these traces of imperialism which cling to those born to the purple. His features just and handsome without being remarkable were those which might command by assumed airs or might be practised to particular expressions but scarcely those which could assert superiority without an effort and at a glance. He incurred but little chance of detection in the dress he had assumed of an honest well to do farmer.

But this last device of the distinguished fugitive the only one in which he had shown any ingenuity and had confessed his real desire to escape was in vain and he was captured three days journey from Washington. He had scarcely expected to fall in with the enemy north of the Chattahoochie river the boundary of the Department of the Southwest and there he had designed to part with his wife and commit her to her journey to the Shenandoah. He was overtaken by a small body of Federal cavalry, originally sent out to post a skirmish line through that part of Georgia reaching to Augusta, but now diverted to his pursuit.

Shipping

[From the Philadelphia Press.]

The pamphlets and charts submitted to Congress along with and subsequently to the report of the Secretary of the Treasury and which bear upon the subject of American shipping if rightfully interpreted go far toward correcting erroneous impressions in the matter. It will be remembered how studiously Democratic politicians during the last canvass inculcated the idea that defective legislation was the cause of the present decline in the shipping interest.

Without ignoring the positive effect of legislation upon the subject the past history and present status of ship building furnish not only refutation of the arguments which sought to fasten odium upon the Republican party, but vindication of that party's policy in this connection.

Considered as a result it is safe to presume that American ship building has increased and should increase at about the same rate as the growth of American commerce. But there are periods when this rule is full of error and any calculations founded upon it are false. Unfortunately the period upon which Democratic politicians have founded their theories was one of this kind. The remarkable growth of ship building which dates from 1848 the time of the discovery of gold in California, which continued through all the wildly-speculative years up to 1855, and which culminated with the approaching disasters of 1857, was entirely abnormal and beyond all the legitimate demands of commerce. It was neither a mark of enterprise nor good government. It was rather an unhealthy tumor upon an unsound system, as the sequel proves, for from its expanded proportions it suddenly ran down to a lower point in 1859 than it had touched since 1845.

It may be readily seen then what a fraud upon public opinion would be perpetrated by comparison with the specious ship building prosperity of 1855. Let it be observed closely that in 1859 the interest sank to 55 ships and barks and 276 schooners built, the latter for coast trade the former mainly for ocean commerce.

Now that man is an idle reasoner who shuts his eyes to the fact that the transfer of our ocean commerce to foreign bottoms during the war was owing to the depredations of rebel pirates. It was a thing beyond the control of all legislative agents—a vis major.

If however the ship building interest is within the control of legal enactments, we may safely assume that that of 1859 was fair, for then the country was at peace and in the hands of a powerful and arbitrary party. Yet the number of ships and barks built during that year we have seen was 55, while the average of all the years from 1860 to 1868 inclusive was 87 2-9, that is the showing with a Democratic Administration at a period of war and scarcely any opportunity for patronizing enactments.

Again we have seen that the number of schooners or vessels for home trade built in that year was 276. If we except the years 1862-5 which fell but little below that number we find a flattering annual increase. Thus 1864 gave us 28 built; 1865 350; 1866 419; 1867 476; [illegible] 456—nearly double the number in 1859. Or if we compare the tonnage of 1859 with that of 1868 the former year gives us 156,602, the latter 2[illegible] 275.

Setting these exhibits of facts against the stump logic of the campaign the conclusion is very favorable to the country and to the sentiments of the dominant party. They clearly prove that the ship building interest is not in that gloomy decline so rhetorically charged.

It would [illegible] for the refutation of another argument. The prostration of ship building has been charged to taxation. How then has there been so material an increase in the number of vessels for home trade? Has any reason been shown why the building of schooners should not be retarded by the same laws that retard or prevent the building of barks and ships for ocean commerce? So far as tax upon material [illegible] construction is concerned there has not

[illegible] and we fear not to put it into the mouths of our enemies. Let them make the most of it. A decade has served [illegible] ship building. Vessels for ocean service are not built of wood to the same extent as formerly. Iron is supplanting the more perishable material. England boasts of having almost completed the transformation of her steam [illegible] the future fleet of the United States must be of the same material. Will [illegible] as we cannot compete with the cheap labor of foreign countries. If [illegible] free trade [illegible] coal and [illegible] in the mountains it must also regale [illegible] the prospect of foreign bottoms carrying all [illegible] ocean trade. This will surely prove a happy consummation for American capital and [illegible] SALT MINE. A correspondent at [illegible] writing on the 1st says: The famous salt [illegible] of Wieliczka [illegible] miles from Cracow which brings a net revenue to the Austrian [illegible] of 6,000,000 [illegible] is threatened with total [illegible] by a stream of water which made [illegible] on the 19th of last month while the workmen were digging in one of the [illegible] shafts in search of potash. The [illegible] a salt mine and village of about [illegible] inhabitants who are in imminent danger of losing their only source of living. All the means hitherto adopted of preventing the water from inundating the mine have been unsuccessful. It flows at the rate of one hundred and twenty cubic feet a minute and has already almost filled the lower passages rapidly dissolving the salt with which it comes in contact. A government engineer has arrived from Vienna and a channel is being built under his directions for confining the water and leading it out of the mine but it is feared that the salt columns which support the transverse shafts will be undermined before the work can be completed. These passages are so numerous that it is said their total length is equal to the distance from Cracow to Vienna and back, and contain [illegible] and provision magazines decorated with statues of salt which are illuminated on festive occasions. The mine is said to have been discovered by a shepherd named Wielicz, in 1250. It came into the possession of Austria in 1772 at the first partition of Poland.

The little kingdom of Siam exhibits a degree of activity and progress that compares very favorably with many countries less remote from the great centers of commerce. The report of the English Consul shows that the exports of the country in 1867 amounted to £1,104,878 and the imports to £793,304. Our attention is also arrested by the [illegible] that the latter covers an immense amount of machinery for the development of the country. Even the Siamese seem to be wiser in the matter of avoiding debt and in everything pertaining to political economy than the universal Yankee nation. During last year, we are told the Siamese Government has shown its readiness to facilitate trade by withdrawing a port regulation which obliged vessels to land their guns at the mouth of the River Menam. It has commenced the erection of a lighthouse to mark the proper spot to cross the bar, a work of the greatest importance to the port. Of internal works are mentioned the construction of a canal intended to connect [illegible] buri and Bangkok a step toward facilitating communication with the great rice districts of Petchaburi and the survey by officers of the Siamese Government of all the rivers of Siam.

The Penitentiary artesian well at Joliet has revealed a new wealth to Illinois imagination. After boring through a "splendid quality" of building stone at a depth of fifteen feet, and a thick bed of white marble at ten feet, the workmen struck a vein of silver. The drilling dust, on being subjected to chemical analysis, developed unquestionable silver [illegible]. The extent or richness of the vein [illegible] definitely known without digging a large hole. The presence of silver in the geological formation of Illinois has never before been dreamed of by scientific men.

Government Subsidies.

Readers of this paper may remember that we have frequently expressed the opinion that in the present financial condition of the country Congress would grant no more large subsidies for building railroads. This opinion is confirmed by the recent resolution of the House which passed by a vote of 90 ayes to 67 noes, declaring it inexpedient to make further grants for such enterprises. Subsequently a disposition was manifested by certain members to make an effort to get the resolution rescinded; but we think there is little probability that the House will reconsider its action.

It is not strange that a large number of the members of Congress should set themselves resolutely against the policy of making further grants. When it is considered that there are pending in the Senate one hundred and ten bills and resolutions, and in the House one hundred and twelve, all proposing to grant material aid in bonds and lands for various railways, and that the amount to be given away is estimated at $120,000,000 in bonds and above 100,000,000 acres of land, it will scarcely be thought surprising that many members should utterly refuse to vote for any grant of the kind. Nearly $100,000,000 more is asked for by the pending ship-canal and st[illegible] line bills. The aid demanded for these numerous and extensive enterprises is, indeed, quite enough to appal those who appreciate the present difficulties and necessities of the country. The Niagara ship canal bill was virtually defeated the other day, which shows that the feeling in Congress on this subject is general, that it is not a sudden spasm, but that it proceeds from a profound conviction on the part of many members that the condition of the country is not such as to warrant them in laying more burdens upon it.

When General Grant said that no measures ought to be adopted to increase the debt, even nominally, while there is a powerful party in the country which seeks to repudiate it, he [illegible] expressed a conviction which is very general in the East. There are railroad projects in which we of Oregon have a deep interest, and for which we would like to have Congress grant subsidies; but if we are compelled to wait yet awhile, let us consider the condition of the country and retain the hope that the Government will ere long be able to [illegible] us the aid we need.

Bombarding on Christian Principles.

A leading London journal, alluding to the recent difficulties between that Government and the monarch at Pekin, says:

> It is with extreme regret that we learn that Sir [illegible] Alcock, our Minister at Pekin, has informed the Regent of China, Prince Kung, that he has placed the Yangchow missionary difficulty in the hands of Sir Henry Keppel, the Admiral on the China station; and the telegraph now informs us that Sir Henry has proceeded to Nankin with Her Majesty's ships Rodney, Rinaldo and Slaney, to [illegible] from Tseng-Kwo-fou, the Viceroy of the province, that redress which our Minister has been [illegible] to obtain at Pekin. We also learn that a [illegible] of that hostility to foreigners which we had hoped was a matter of the past, has [illegible] in several of the open ports, and [illegible] perhaps the inability of the [illegible] government at Pekin to enforce its will on the provincial authorities has obliged Sir Rutherford to take extreme measures.

[illegible] reads like a [illegible] of the fable of the wolf and the lamb. "It is with extreme regret," that the London press announces the necessity that impels Admiral Keppel to double shot his guns, and obliterate a Chinese town or two at a single broadside, so as to save un[illegible]. This is promising! Formerly an English lieutenant commander delivered a solid English compliment in the shape of solid shot upon a mass of innocent people [illegible] young and old like so [illegible], and sent in his report afterwards, [illegible] is no evidence to be found in the history of England where the authors of these [illegible] were called to account, or punished according to their deserts. There are abundant evidences of their speedy promotion, however.

England's readiness to bombard Chinese towns upon the slightest pretext, when contrasted with her dilatoriness and dignity in treating with France, Prussia, or the United States, concerning questions embracing warlike [illegible], is so noticeable as to provoke comments not always favorable to the "Best Civilized Government on the face of the globe."

Telegraphic Facilities.—An Eastern journal says: "The time is not far distant when the bulk of correspondence now transmitted by mail will be carried on through the telegraphic system. There is no reason why such is not the case now. Ten cents ought to pay, and could be made to pay, for sending messages any distance in the States. A reduction in the tariff of rates would unquestionably be attended by the same results which have everywhere followed the reduction of railway fares in England and on the continent of Europe. Now, the patrons of the telegraph are mainly composed of business men, tourists, and those temporarily from home. The number is proportionately small to those who could be persuaded to patronize the telegraph, by the managers keeping the future as the present in view. With the reduction of rates, employing the telegraph would become the rule rather than the exception." The Democratic papers of Oregon cry out against this project, and assert that the design of it is to subvert the liberties of the people! Should we follow such a theory of politics, we would abolish the mails, do away with all commercial regulations, dissolve all the bands of organized society, and go back to that state of nature which such speculatists as Bolingbroke and Monboddo have so highly extolled.

Twaddling Intermeddlers.—The Albany (N. Y.) Journal, of Jan. 2d, says: "General Grant's attention was yesterday called to the recent telegraphic dispatches purporting to give his alleged conversations, and indicating his intention to quarrel with Congress. He pronounced the whole thing a fabrication. The conversations printed in various journals, purporting to give General Grant's views and alleging that he would not remove office holders on political grounds alone, have no trustworthy foundation. It is well known by all of General Grant's friends that he is, and has been at all times, in favor of removing from office every Democrat whom he finds in place, and talking to his friends he speaks freely of copperheads and rebels, and never conceals his dislike for them." It was hardly necessary to make this statement. Every one knows that General Grant is a man of wisdom, and hence he could not occupy the very foolish position assigned him by the gossips. It is safe to say that General Grant is not given to garrulousness, and hence intermeddlers cannot have any foundation to speak for him.

A Bit of Romance.

A writer in the Round Table discusses the question, Was Marshal Ney an American or a Frenchman? His biography, as written by his family, represents him to have been born at Sarre Louis, a small town on the Rhine. Another story says his proper name was Michael Rodolph, and that he served as a Captain in General Wayne's army in his Indian war. Having conceived himself insulted on one occasion by Mad Anthony, he challenged him, was dismissed by Washington, went to farming near Elkton, Md., traded in tobacco, experienced domestic betrayal, and went to France. Mr. Pinckney, our then Minister to France, recognized him shortly afterward under his new name. Rodolph's wife married and settled near Brunswick, Ga., whither Count Ney, who was Chargé d'Affaires for the French Government at Rio de Janeiro, and well known to many American officers, went immediately after his arrival in New York, remaining with the Brunswick family a number of weeks. This is a very romantic story, but it seems to us superfluous labor to borrow martial honor from France when we have equally as brave men as either Ney, Napoleon or Wayne fighting the red-skins. But there will always be a class of people to look over the achievements of their own times, misled by the great figures grouped in the fog of past years. Time, like fog, adds to the stature of ordinary men until they can scarcely be taken in by the eye of the chance observer.

Consolation for the Timid.

In the following from an article written by Parton and published in the Atlantic Monthly for January, those timid souls who are frightened so terribly about "negro equality" will find something which may serve to raise their fainting courage and dispel their fears:

> Major De Forest, in one of his valuable and entertaining articles on the "Man and Brother," has intimated an opinion that the black man will never associate in this country on equal terms with the white man. Never is a long time, and we cannot even see into the next century; but I should say that the condition of the colored people in New England supports the gallant major's conjecture. There are not more than twelve or fifteen thousand colored people in Massachusetts; but they are so unequally distributed that you may occasionally find a considerable number of them in one town. They stand before the law equal to the white man; their children sit in the public schools side by side with his; they are treated with consideration and respect; they have the same opportunities to acquire property as the white man; they go with him to the ballot box, and vote on the same terms and conditions—nevertheless, their social position is precisely the same in New England as it is in North Carolina. They usually live in a cluster of cottages in the outskirts of the village; the men are laborers or waiters, and the women take in washing or go out to service. They live in peace and abundance, but they are no nearer social equality now than they were thirty years ago. They seldom get on so far as to own a farm, seldom learn a trade, and never run a factory or keep a store. In the free high schools—one of which nearly every town in New England supports, or helps support—a colored youth is rarely found. In and near Stockbridge, for example, there is a colored population of nearly two hundred, and they have been settled there for many years; but no colored boy or girl has ever applied for admission to the high school, though it is free to all.

Wholesale Swindling.—Nowhere is the revenue so outrageously plundered as at New Orleans. Over forty licensed distilleries have been running during the past year, but the Government did not collect taxes enough to pay the salaries of the storekeepers. No distiller has ever yet been prosecuted in Louisiana to a final conviction. Bonded warehouses for liquors have been robbed of thousands of barrels. Warehouses were burned down after the liquors had been previously stolen. Bonds of Collectors have been wholly worthless, the securities when accepted being notoriously insolvent. All the officials are appointees of Johnson's.

Not Good Authority.—The Democratic journals, led by the New York World, which is as able as malicious, are endeavoring to make it appear that a quarrel has already begun between General Grant and the radicals in Congress. They lied so persistently about General Grant during the political campaign that it is perhaps too much to expect that they could altogether abandon the habit.

Washington Territory.—The returns of assessment from the several counties of Washington Territory for the year 1868 have been received by the Territorial Auditor. The total amount of property assessed is $7,029,250, showing an increased valuation since 1867 of $228,601. This increase is evenly distributed throughout the Territory, and shows very satisfactory progress.

Late News Brevities.

It takes twenty to twenty-five cords of birch wood to make spools enough for the thread made in one week by the Willimantic Linen Company.

Mr. George Peabody's gifts to the poor of London and Baltimore have, by the latest accounts, amounted to two and one half millions of dollars.

All the inhabitants of Siam had to have their heads shaved or be flogged, when their King died. The shaving was probably desired by the royal family, because after that operation had been gone through with no Siamese could claim to have any heir apparent to the throne.

The battle ground of Spottsylvania is now overgrown with rough underbrush and scrub pine, which is fast covering the marks of war. The long succession of earthworks from which Grant's army forced General Lee, hardly three hundred feet apart, are nearly obliterated.

The largest distillery in the country has just been finished near Lexington, Kentucky. It will be able to make 2,400 gallons of whiskey per day. Thirty other distilleries in the same district begin operations January 1st, and their aggregate daily product is estimated at 26,000 gallons.

A citizen of Burlington, Vt., has invented a clock that runs by electricity and never requires winding. It has only three wheels, no weights or springs, and it is claimed that it has little friction, is not affected by heat, cold, dampness or jarring. A single clock and battery can be connected with any number of dials and indicators, in the same building, or even along the whole line of railway.

The production of coal in Great Britain in 1867 amounted to 104,500,380 tons, valued at about $130,000,000. The value of all minerals, as ore, salt, clay, &c., during the year, was nearly $220,000,000. The iron product was valued at about $60,000,000. In 1867, the amount of coal mined was only about 65,000,000 tons. It is estimated that the yield of coal in the United States in 1867 was about 25,000,000 tons.

Well Said.—The Native Virginian, says a friend in Richmond, closes a recent letter thus: "By the way, what is to become of the ladies and gentlemen of Virginia, born to affluence, with refined tastes, but now bereft of means? I wish you would treat the subject, as you can so well, in your paper." There is but one way to treat the subject. We know a young man in whose veins the best blood of Virginia and South Carolina is mingled. He was a good soldier, for he loves war and hates farming. On the hottest days in Summer we have seen him, hoe in hand, sleeves rolled up, arms bare to the elbow, working like a steam engine from dawn until dark. This man, by pluck, by industry, and by prudence, will win back what his fathers won before him by means of the same qualities. Not the pride of race, but the strength of blood, will make him a master again. Such a man will not be kept down. As for those Virginia ladies and gentlemen who will not stoop to conquer, (that fact alone throws a doubt on the purity of their blood,) they will live and die miserably, and their children will be chambermaids and hostlers to the descendants of Yankee settlers.

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

DATES TO JANUARY 19.

U. S. Senator Elected.

St. Louis, Jan. 19.—General Schurz was elected U. S. Senator to-day. The Democrats voted for John S. Phelps.

St. Paul, Jan. 19.—Alexander Ramsay was re-elected U. S. Senator by the unanimous Republican vote with one exception.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 19.—Chandler was re-elected U. S. Senator, receiving the entire Republican vote.

Augusta, Me., Jan. 19.—Hannibal Hamlin was elected U. S. Senator to serve till March the 4th. His son, Thomas Bayard was elected for the full term six years afterwards.—[The latter part of this dispatch evidently refers to the Senatorial election in Delaware.—Ed. Oregonian.]

Chicago, Jan. 19.—The Republican caucus of the Nebraska Legislature have, up to this time, failed to nominate a Senator. Tipton has the highest vote and Governor Butler next.

Indianapolis, Jan. 19.—The Legislature failed to elect a Senator. In the Senate Cumback received 12 votes, Hendricks 19, scattering 9. On the election in the House Cumback received 48, Hendricks 45; scattering 7. No election. The two houses meet to-morrow in joint convention and will vote again. Several Republicans refuse to vote for Cumback on account of a proposition made by him to Governor Baker last evening not to become a candidate against Baker for Governor if the latter would use his influence to secure his candidateship and election to the Senate. This proposal Baker denounced as corrupt and indecent. The correspondence between Baker and Cuback was read in the Senate, whereupon the Senate passed a resolution declaring Cumback's conduct dishonorable, and several members refuse to sustain the caucus nomination.

Boston, Jan 19.—Sumner was re-elected Senator to day almost without opposition.

Albany, Jan. 19.—Reuben E. Fenton was elected Senator to-day.

Militia Outrage Punished.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 19.—Three Arkansas militiamen were convicted by a court martial for outraging a white woman, and shot by order of the court martial to-day.

Congressional.

Washington, Jan. 19.—In the Senate Corbett presented a memorial from the citizens of Washington Territory against the submission of the question of the ownership of San Juan Island to arbitration.

Corbett introduced a bill to grant land in aid of the construction of a railroad through Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific.

Thayer offered a Constitutional amendment to prevent the disfranchisement of any citizen on account of color. The resolution was laid on the table.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the Cooper bill. Several amendments were offered and variously disposed of. The Cooper bill finally passed and the Senate went into executive session, and soon after adjourned.

In the House Ely offered a resolution to print three hundred thousand copies of Commissioner Wells' report. Kelly opposed the resolution and denounced Wells' statements as false, delusive and damaging to the country. The debate was continued by Garfield, Lenks, Butler, Morehead and Ely, and the resolution was finally adopted.

The House resumed the consideration of the bill to preserve the purity of elections in the territories. Phelps offered an amendment providing for the representing of minors—rejected by 48 to 16. After considerable debate the bill was passed 61 to 56.

The House proceeded to dispose of the business on the Speaker's table. The Senate bill to grant lands and the right of way to the Denver Pacific Railroad was taken up. Price offered an amendment that a subsidy in bonds be issued for no more than fifty-four miles of the road. Maynard inquired whether the bill could be considered under the resolution adopted yesterday. The Speaker said that was a matter for the House to decide. Price remarked that the House might as well fight the battle as to subsidies on this bill as any other. Several other amendments were offered including two providing that the lands shall be sold only to actual settlers. Washburne of Illinois, made an elaborate speech in opposition to the bill, after which, without further action, the House adjourned.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

London, Jan. 19.—The Pall Mall Gazette hopes the English Parliament will not ratify the Alabama treaty if the question of the recognition of the Southern Confederacy as a belligerent is to be opened.

Madrid, Jan. 19.—The returns of the elections for the Cortes show an overwhelming majority in favor of a monarchy. The Republicans carried Seville, Barcelona, Alacante, Saragossa and other cities, and there will be about a hundred Republicans in the Cortes.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

San Francisco, Jan. 20.—It is said that King, of the firm of J. King & Co., whose firm has been largely interested in the wheat trade and shipping, and recently failed in consequence of bills of the sum of $20,000 being returned from a Liverpool house protested, has got a considerable amount of money in his possession and fled to Paris. The unsecured debts of the firm here amount to about $30,000.

Yesterday afternoon the residence of Mr. Savage, San Souci valley was entered by a robber. He was seen by Miss Savage, a young lady of 17, whereupon he beat her over the head with a revolver until he thought she was dead. He then took whatever valuables he could find and escaped, and was arrested in this city to-day upon suspicion of being the guilty party. Miss Savage's injuries are severe but not dangerous.

Harry Logan is recovering rapidly and is beyond danger.

Benj. A. Harrison has sued the San Francisco and Oakland Railroad company to recover $25,000 damages for the death of his daughter Cora, at the disaster at Oakland pier, June 4th. He also sues for $5,000 damages sustained by his wife, Lydia, at the same time. He joins with his wife in a third suit against the company for $20,000.

W. C. Reed was acquitted on the charge of forging and selling certificates of naturalization this morning.

An unknown female child was found floating in Mission creek.

A body was found washed ashore at North Beach yesterday morning, and was identified as that of Baltesia Papinac.

Morris Linch was robbed of $52 on Barbary Coast last night.

The ship Lourena, for Liverpool to-day, carried 480 tons of flour and 634 tons of wheat, valued at $53,000. The steamer Idaho sailed for Honolulu to day with an assorted cargo, valued at $37,000.

Capt. W. Shield, while in bed at a hotel in San Jose on Monday night, had his night clothing set on fire and was terribly burned. It is not known whether his injuries will prove fatal.

The steamer Japan is entering the harbor at 8 o'clock P. M.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

Jacksonville, Jan. 20.—Only one new case of small pox has been reported here for two days. That is Dr. Overbeck, who was accidentally inoculated and whose exposure has been very great. Two light cases are reported in the valley. To this date we have had fifty-three cases and fourteen deaths. All the old cases are convalescent, but one, which is expected to end fatally.

Railroad Item.—While some men are trucks to bear the burdens of the earth, or furnace-grates to bear the fires and to be consumed in obscurity, others are driving-wheels, which give life and motion to all with whom they are connected. Kohn & Fabel, the leading Dry Goods merchants of Portland, are the driving-wheels of trade in that city. They conceived and carried on to completion a work nobler than the Pyramids, grander than the gardens of Nineveh or the walls of Babylon, for their work is not a monument for the dead, neither the gratification of a luxuriant fancy, but it is a new pathway for purchasers, a link to bind the chain of families and the hearts of men.

Night School.—Mr. Fitzgerald has opened a Night School in the schoolhouse (up stairs) near the Catholic Church. For Terms see the Teacher.

Dancing Academy.—Prof. Cardinell's classes are held every week-day evening, and on Saturday afternoon for children. Hall in Poppleton's Building, First street.

Dancing Academy.---Prof. McCann's Dancing Academy is open every evening in the week, excepting Wednesday, for the reception of pupils. Corner of Front and Alder streets. Class for children half past one Saturday afternoon.

[illegible]—The Unionist says that Mr Murphy, [illegible] the tax of 1868, [illegible] comes in slowly, the [illegible] received [illegible] dollars less than at the same [illegible]. One of the income returns handed to the [illegible] of Internal Revenue, has this entry [illegible] source of "income," "Won from John F [illegible], $100 coin equal in currency to [illegible]." [illegible] was made that return The [illegible] to improve the street leading from the [illegible] up into the city ... The Unionist gives [illegible] particulars concerning the death of a man [illegible] dead in his bed the other day: "About a [illegible] the man was taken up and brought before the [illegible] with [illegible] He gave his name [illegible] Lyon. In [illegible] appearance Lyon appeared [illegible] he had just come out of the river, or probably [illegible] mud hole. He stated that he was sick, and taking medicine for the ague He was fined five [illegible], and in default of payment was committed to prison. He lay two or three days, would go out at the [illegible] time looking very bad and haggard. He [illegible] off and finally brought up at Brown's brewery, [illegible] soon became very sick. Brown went to the [illegible] and stated the case, and want to know [illegible] do in the case. Mr [illegible] told him [illegible] and so forth, and referred him to the [illegible]. The Clerk authorized Mr Brown to do [illegible] in the case, and the bill would be [illegible]. Dr Swigart was called in on Sunday [illegible] administered some medicine He found the [illegible] very bad condition The next morning he was found dead in his bed. The [illegible] of his sick [illegible] he was [illegible] to the [illegible] lying [illegible] in a cold dungeon and [illegible], with a want of that proper care and [illegible] by his condition, were cause enough

[illegible]—The [illegible] City anti Chinaman movement [illegible] out [illegible] flow of derisive [illegible] that was to have been and was not [illegible] was hooted out by a bigger [illegible] of the leading anti-Chinaman [illegible], etc. On Tuesday night, great sport being [illegible] crowd turned out, and there was sport [illegible] the [illegible] was not [illegible] man whose [illegible] we do not [illegible] "chairman" and then the fun [illegible] who were not afraid that the [illegible] his superiors, pitched in, poked sticks [illegible], and laughed till everybody got sore [illegible]. Toward the close of the meeting, [illegible] said he doubted if any person had been [illegible] of the woolen mill to make room for a China[illegible] the "chairman" arose and said he had [illegible] out The first speaker retorted that the [illegible] intendent of the mill he thought he [illegible] done the same thing The laugh here came [illegible] man, but that individual being in [illegible] couldn't give it up so, and came back [illegible] First speaker then arose and gravely [illegible] connecting the "chairman" in [illegible] with a calf's head; whereupon the [illegible] up in a general guffaw all round. Mr A [illegible] of the club [illegible] but we learn that he advises [illegible] of the concern, and thinks that the wisest [illegible] they can form will be an association [illegible] own families

ARRIVAL OF THE H. W ALMY.—The bark H W Almy, [illegible], arrived this morning, fourteen days [illegible] Francisco. The captain reports fair weather [illegible] but after crossing the bar, she was detained five [illegible] by head winds The Okanagon towed [illegible]. The following is a list of her consignees, with [illegible] of packages to each C Morrison 31, Capt [illegible] 25 bbls lime and 5,000 ft redwood boards, Hill [illegible] Co 61, C W Page & Co 17 Neill, Lowenstein [illegible] 5, Jackson, [illegible] & Co 9, F S Tile [illegible], Smith & Davis 105, O L Parrish [illegible], E G Sa[illegible] 600, Hawley, Dodd & Co [illegible] & Co 66, S G Reed 11, Allen & Lewis [illegible] 55, [illegible] 64, H [illegible] & Co 101, [illegible] Milwain 25, L 2 [illegible] 30, H [illegible] [illegible] 6, S A W 7, H & S [illegible] 2 to pianos, [illegible] W & R 20 cs bitters, M & V 118, [illegible] Pittock 51, [illegible] S 124, E L & Co 24, [illegible] of coffee.

[illegible]—A day or two since a Webfoot from [illegible] came over to the city, stayed till night [illegible] horse in a livery stable—or at least, he thinks [illegible] and thus proceeded to see the city The next [illegible] he went where he thought he had left his horse [illegible] the animal out To his astonishment, the [illegible] denied the soft impeachment and swore [illegible] stall of every horse in his stable that no [illegible] had been left with him Webfoot, thinking [illegible] taken, went to another stable His horse [illegible]. He went, in turn, to all the [illegible] find. His horse was not to be found at [illegible] Webfoot got a friend to assist him, but up [illegible], their united efforts had proved fruitless. [illegible] is a mixed case, in which the Lioness [illegible]

[illegible] AT SALEM.—We learn by passengers from [illegible] day's boat that there is but one case of [illegible] at that place The patient is a man named [illegible] a passenger on the Enterprise from [illegible] recently He is now considered out of [illegible] and there is no longer any alarm felt about the [illegible]

[illegible].—The Herald has been furnished [illegible] of the county expenditures for the six months [illegible] July 1st 1868, from which it appears that the [illegible] warrants pauper expenditures, court [illegible], circuit court county court fees in State [illegible] justices of the peace, salaries and fees of [illegible], etc., etc amount to $24 968 68

Mr McCann's next Soiree will take place at [illegible] Guard's Armory next Saturday night [illegible] at 8 o'clock These occasions are always [illegible] and those who love dancing could scarcely find [illegible] way of spending an evening than to attend and [illegible] in the galeties of the evening

[illegible].—It is stated that on Monday the [illegible] Union struck a rock in the Yamhill river [illegible] below McMinnville and knocked a hole into [illegible] making it necessary to beach her She was [illegible] but her cargo was not much damaged

BENEFIT.—A benefit will be given by Mr Bates and company [illegible] night [illegible] Messrs Lappeus & Knowles [illegible] changes necessary to [illegible] made to Dr [illegible] a very heavy expense [illegible] has scarcely paid them. Notwithstanding that the improvements constantly needed have more than [illegible] their share of the receipts they have always with a liberal spirit complied with every fresh demand and have thus entitled themselves to the favorable consideration [illegible] of the theatre-going public. Their first [illegible] it is hoped, ought to be recognized [illegible] we shall be pleased to see a full house.

[illegible] We learn with regret that Mr Bates [illegible] will [illegible] in a few days. He will remain there perhaps two or three weeks, and if sufficient encouragement may be received It is his intention to return here and play through the spring season We have heard through [illegible] Mr Bates himself that when he [illegible] will be joined by Mr [illegible] Wheat [illegible] Whether [illegible] the people of Portland will warmly welcome Mr Bates and wife [illegible] again [illegible]

OPERA HOUSE THEATER.—The splendid drama of "The Streets of New York" was performed [illegible] last night [illegible] very good house [illegible] scarcely [illegible] It was [illegible] the stage people [illegible] spoken [illegible] The play will [illegible] night for the last time [illegible] popularity [illegible]

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON, Saturday, Dec 26 1868

CONGRESS

In the Senate, last Saturday, several bills and resolutions were introduced and referred to committees, but no business of special importance was transacted Senator Pomeroy introduced a bill to provide for the reassembling of the Georgia Constitutional Convention A number of nominations were sent in by the President, but were not acted upon. After a short debate on the bill passed by the House a few days ago to regulate the tariff on copper, the Senate adjourned. The House was not in session on Saturday

On Monday Senator Wilson introduced, in the Senate, a bill providing that when any Judge of the Supreme Court of the United States arrives at the age of 70 years he may resign, and continue to receive during life the same salary to which he was entitled at the time of his resignation It is understood that this bill is approved by the members of the Supreme Court, and, if it should become a law, Justices Grier and Nelson would give place to younger men Grier is 74 and Nelson 76 A resolution was adopted authorizing the presiding officer to appoint two additional members on the Pacific Railroad Committee, increasing it to eleven, in order to accommodate the South Senator Corbett argued that one of those members should be from the Pacific coast, so as to represent the Northern Pacific Railroad After the introduction of a few important resolutions the Senate adjourned to meet on the 5th of January, 1869 The House was called to order by Mr Washburne, of Ill, Speaker pro tem, and, after reading the report of the Retrenchment Committee on the whisky frauds, adjourned to the same day

CULTIVATING OYSTERS ON THE PACIFIC COAST

Capt Patterson, of the U S Coast Survey, well known to Oregonians for many years as a master on board steamships plying between San Francisco and Portland, is compiling all the information he can get on the subject of cultivating oysters in France, and intends to have it published by the Government for general distribution, but more particularly for the Pacific coast Capt Patterson says that by cultivation the French have four or five times as many oysters along their coast as they had a few years ago The oysters of Yaquina Bay in Oregon, and Shoalwater Bay, Washington Territory are exactly like the French oysters, and by cultivation Capt. Patterson thinks the oyster trade may be made a very important item in the commerce of the Pacific coast.

THE ALASKA PURCHASE

The Secretary of State testified before the Alaska Investigating Committee that he knew nothing of any money having been paid to secure the passage of the Alaska appropriation bill, and that the whole expenses of the State Department in the transaction did not exceed $500 Mr Seward said he had instigated the publication of several articles in the newspapers advocating the appropriation, but the articles were published gratuitously He was consulted by Baron Stoeckl about the propriety of employing Robert J Walker and had recommended that gentleman The report about large sums having been paid to newspaper men were sheer fabrications

THE ISTHMUS SHIP CANAL

It is understood that Secretary Seward is trying to negotiate with the Government of Colombia for the right to construct a ship canal across the Isthmus of Darien and it is surmised that Caleb Cushing, who has been sent somewhere by the State Department on a secret mission, has gone to the Isthmus for that purpose A route for a ship canal has been surveyed by competent engineers and pronounced practicable, although one mountain ridge would have to be tunneled I believe the estimated cost of the canal is $60,000,000 in gold

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS

Last week we had the Maretzek German and Italian Opera company at the National Theatre Crowds of people rushed to the theatre and paid as high as $2 50 for seats to hear a band of foreigners scream (for opera singers don't sing like ordinary human beings) in a language which they could not understand This week we have had the "Black Crook" at the National, and the "Flash of Lightning" by a new company at Walls' Opera House Of the cheap concert saloons several are in full blast

Among the lecturers, John B Gough and Petroleum V. Nasby have entertained Washington audiences within the past few days

GENERAL AMNESTY

Yesterday, Andrew Johnson issued a proclamation extending full pardon to Jeff Davis and every other person who directly or indirectly participated in the late insurrection or rebellion It is in accordance with the fitness of things that this traitor to the party that elected him, should signalize his departure from power by proclaiming "amnesty for the offense of treason against the United States" But as Jeff Davis is the only man ever arraigned for trial "for the offense of treason against the United States," and as there was not the slightest prospect of ever convicting him, Andrew's edict will not turn the world topsy turvy

THE WEATHER

There is no snow here but the weather is very cold Snow is over a foot deep in northern Pennsylvania and New York and has been so for several weeks

PERSONAL

Judge Olney of Oregon arrived here yesterday, overland fifteen days from Sacramento

K

BEHIND THE TIMES.—The Kentuckians seem to be unaware of any public sentiment or action save what they know of within their own borders Nay they are even worse than Rip Van Winkles, for they sleep with their eyes open and see not the events that keep marching on To them there has been no war no reconstruction no constitutional amendment no nothing except Bourbon victories in Kentucky They wait to test the Civil Rights bill after all its leading features have been affirmed by the Fourteenth amendment Verily there is a depth of passionate, obstinate self delusion which never learns anything!—Sacramento [illegible]

A Prima Donna's Jealousy.

A DETECTIVE'S EXPERIENCE.

"I shall never forget," said Mr. F——, "a circumstance that occurred here in the Winter of 185-. It was illustrative, in an almost immeasurable degree, of that peculiar element in a woman's character—jealousy.

"One night Mr. I—— and myself were seated in the office, solacing ourselves, after a hard day's work, with cigars and an occasional sip of brandy, when the porter entered and announced a lady to see us. She followed immediately behind him, and the announcement was hardly made when she stood before us.

"A lady, evidently. There was no mistaking the haughty carriage, the dignified yet imposing manners. A heavy dark veil obscured her features, but I knew intuitively that the woman was beautiful. There was that indescribable manner about her which every woman conscious of beauty invariably possesses. I say I knew this, even before her voice told me who she was. I had heard that too often to mistake its accents now.

"You are Madam H——?" I said, offering her a seat.

"You know me then?" She started visibly as she spoke, and I detected a tremor in her voice.

"That is not surprising, madam, since I have so often heard your voice."

"Ah! yes, that has betrayed me, but I need your services, and should have been compelled to disclose my name any way. Your excellent memory, sir, has saved me the necessity."

"I bowed in acquiescence, and she then proceeded to tell me that she had that afternoon received intelligence, which she deemed reliable, that a plot had been formed by a rival actress to injure her personally, perhaps take her life.

"They were both prima donnas in the opera. Our visitor, a lady of remarkable beauty, and whose voice, the sweetest and most musical I had ever heard, possessed a compass and tone that had made her the acknowledged favorite of our people. This had excited the animosity of Miss B——, who before the coming of Madam H—— had enjoyed the distinction of a favorite, now being rapidly withdrawn by her rival. She was a daring, vindictive woman, who for this indulged an animosity which could only be appeased in the [illegible] of the woman who had deprived her of the adulation in which she exulted. Almost as beautiful as Madam H——, she imagined that but for the graces of her person her triumphs would not be so assured. To strike this [illegible] rival down, and at the same time gratify the hate that burned in her heart, now engaged every sleeping and waking thought. To accomplish this, Madam H—— had been informed a conspiracy had been planned, and to discover which our services were required. She revealed to us other facts, not necessary now to detail, but which convinced us of the truth of the information the lady had received. Having done this, she retired, and left Mr. I—— and myself to consult.

"It is [illegible] to say that the next night found us both at the opera. The beauty and fashion of the city had assembled to hear Bellini's grand opera of Norma, in which Madam H—— appeared as Norma, and Miss B—— represented the young priestess Adalgisa. Never, perhaps, were the passionate sorrows of the Druid priestesses so feelingly portrayed. [illegible] a wild terror in Norma's eye, not lent by genius—fierce despair in the mien of Adalgisa, not born on the wreck of her girlhood's hopes; their very communings had an antagonism in them, [illegible] as if Norma had mingled with her soothing a jealousy of the [illegible] who had robbed her of her lover's fidelity.

"I saw it and knew what it meant. This impression was deeply confirmed when [illegible] rose from her knees with a cry—[illegible] as a wail of despair, but which breathed [illegible] fled from the presence of her consoler. Her personation was the [illegible] jealousy of a heart burning for revenge, not the analysis of an enthusiastic [illegible]. My heart felt a chill of fear as I [illegible] look of the jealous woman, and marked the thrill of the passionate voice. Intuitively I felt that the hour in which she would [illegible] to accomplish her revenge was [illegible].

"When the curtain fell, in the last scene, Mr. I—— [illegible] at the door from which the two [illegible] would leave.

"In the [illegible] which Miss B—— occupied, I noticed a strange looking man, evidently [illegible], but, as the light of the lamp [illegible] on his [illegible] red scar on the back of his left hand. I knew him then as the [illegible] restaurant, to which the [illegible] of the opera usually retired for a [illegible]. I saw the whole arrangement. It [illegible] upon me like a gleam of lightning, and I determined not to lose sight of the [illegible]. That they were going to the restaurant, I knew full well. Madame H—— would be there, too. It was an invariable custom from which their habits never varied. Driving rapidly to the place, therefore, we are comfortably [illegible] in the lady's [illegible] when the prima donna came in. I saw at once in Miss B—— [illegible] scared look, an uncertain [illegible] attempt to appear at ease, which [illegible]. But to Mme. H—— she was [illegible] polite. I saw the stare of unfeigned [illegible] of that lady, when her rival almost overwhelmed her with the unexpected compliments on her success. [illegible] and [illegible] accepted them as in earnest [illegible] take a glass of wine [illegible] the proprietor [illegible] the wine. At this moment [illegible] of Miss B—— [illegible] trembled as she [illegible] glass, and the pupils of her [illegible] eyes contracted and enlarged [illegible]. The wine was [illegible] Madame H—— [illegible] I stepped behind her [illegible] from her hand. The lady looked surprised, the prima donna, with [illegible], fell fainting to the floor, while the proprietor, with a bound like a [illegible], sprang forward to [illegible] the glass from my hand. But he never reached me. The stern command of Mr. I—— stopped him, and his presented pistol reduced the refractory Frenchman to obedience.

"The wine was poisoned.

"The [illegible] of Madame H—— prevented any exposure of the singing but repentant woman, and you are the only person to whom has ever been revealed the story of the prima donna's jealousy."

CHANGE OF NAME!

MERCADO & CO., SUCCESSORS TO Mercado & Seully, have been obliged, for their own protection and the safety of the public, to change the name of their celebrated Bitters to

MERCADO'S
Native California Wine
BITTERS

We subjoin the following affidavit [illegible] in an action then suit formerly pending between Mercado & Seully, plaintiffs, and G. A. Samson, defendant:

P. Samsevain, being duly sworn says: "That the article known as Samsevain's California Wine Bitters was manufactured by Mercado & Seully, about the month of March 1864, with all the said Samsevain Brothers having any concern in the manufacture thereof. The deponent has always known and considered said Mercado & Seully as the Sole Proprietors of the Samsevain California Wine Bitters."

Notwithstanding the above affidavit the said P. Samsevain is getting up, or is about doing, under the name of Samsevain's California Wine Bitters, a preparation in imitation of the bitters so celebrated, which we have been manufacturing and selling in immense quantities since 1860, and is affixing a nearly similar label to that used on our genuine Wine Bitters. BE NOT DECEIVED! Send for

NATIVE CALIFORNIA WINE BITTERS,

And you will obtain the same popular beverage so favorably known since 1860. Beware of Counterfeits! Purchasers of our Wine Bitters are requested to observe the familiar old yellow label, and see that the words, "MERCADO & SEULLY, SAN FRANCISCO," are engraved on the Government stamp pasted over the cork of each bottle. This is the only effectual security against the counterfeit imitations.

NOTES.

Proposals must be to carry the mail with "celerity, certainty, and security," using the terms of the law, and they must be guaranteed by two responsible persons, certified to as such by a postmaster or judge of a court of record.

No pay will be made for trips not performed, and for each of such omissions not satisfactorily explained three times the pay of the trip may be deducted. For arrivals so far behind time as to break connections with depending mails, and not sufficiently excused, one-fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. Fines will be imposed, unless the delinquency be satisfactorily explained, for neglecting to take the mail from or into a postoffice, for suffering it to be injured, robbed, or lost; and for refusing, after demand, to convey the mail as frequently as the contractor runs, or is concerned in running vehicles on the route. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for disobeying the post office laws, or the instructions of the Department. He may alter the schedule of departures and arrivals, and also order an increase of service by allowing therefor a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may also curtail or discontinue the service in whole or in part, at a pro rata decrease of pay, allowing one month's extra compensation on the amount of service dispensed with. Bids should be addressed to the "Second Assistant Postmaster General," superscribed "Proposals, State of Oregon," and sent by mail.

For forms of proposal, &c., and other information, see advertisement of this date, in pamphlet form, at the principal post offices.

ALEX. W. RANDALL,
j11d1aw4w Postmaster General.

OF THE

Weekly Oregonian.

FOR 1869.

Nineteenth Volume!

Only $3.00 a Year.

By common consent, the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. It is the oldest paper in the State, and its circulation and influence are greater than that of any other two papers combined. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles, it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST, but to everything of moment to the great

Agricultural, Manufacturing,
AND MINING INTERESTS,

And to the development of the r[illegible] and [illegible] of the Northwest.

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS OF
Oregon, Washington, Idaho and [illegible]

TELEGRAMS FROM

are published as full as in the California [illegible], and put before our readers from ONE TO THREE DAYS BEFORE ANY OTHER PAPER IN THE STATE.

Among its corps of writers are regular correspondents at New York and Washington City, men who, having lived in this State, are able to write on Eastern affairs, both politically and commercially from an Oregon [illegible] point.

Its Literary and General Selections are from the best sources.

EXTENDED AND RELIABLE

are furnished every week, giving the Financial, Dry Goods, Hardware, and General Market Reports of Portland, and the latest reports by Telegraph of the San Francisco and New York markets. These reports are acknowledged to be the most accurate published in the State.

In every department it will be, as it has been, the foremost in the State in the field of journalism. Being firmly established, it will go forward with confidence, making new plans for improvement and [illegible], and [illegible] to gain increased circulation and support.

TERMS:

One Year	$3 00.
Six Months	2 00.
Three Months	1 00.

The WEEKLY OREGONIAN has been a favorite [illegible] for [illegible] to friends in the East. It will be [illegible] from the office at subscription rates.

Subscribers will find on each paper, with their name, the date on which their subscriptions expire, as entered on our books. In remitting, the name of subscriber and post office should be distinctly written.

All papers are discontinued at the end of the time for which they have been paid, the date of which is always printed with the name each week.

REMIT BY MAIL AT OUR RISK, to p[illegible] of Postmaster, or pay to the nearest authorized agent.

We ask our friends to aid us in extending the circulation of the OREGONIAN in every direction.
